Birthplace of Yadkin Valley AVA

Surry County is the birthplace of the Yadkin Valley American Viticultural Area (AVA).

In the early 2000s, brothers Charlie and Ed Shelton of Shelton Vineyards undertook the lengthy process of getting federal government designation of Yadkin Valley as North Carolina's first AVA. That set the stage for growth in the valley, particularly in Surry County.

The Surry County Wine Trail features 16 wineries, of which 15 are located in the county. One is located just outside the county and aligns closely with its Surry County counterparts.

Yadkin Valley Grape Varietals

In the Blue Ridge foothills of North Carolina, Surry County sits at an ideal elevation and latitude for growing European vinifera grapes. Roughly three-fourths are classic vinifera varietals for dry and off-dry wines, setting the Yadkin Valley apart from other wine regions in the South. However, fans of sweeter wines will find ample options as well.
